

American History
Unit 5: From Isolation to World War
Project

Name: _____

Date: _____

Directions: for this project students will create a short picture book as a review for the unit test. Your book should tell a short story explaining how the United States went from being an isolationist country to direct intervention in World War II. How you choose to write the book is up to you but you must have the following information listed below in your story. You should begin your book explaining isolationism and policies and end with the use of nuclear weapons and the United States and Soviet Union as world superpowers. Be sure to support your story with factual information discussed in the chapter. Each page must have a picture and a brief story description. Your book will be graded on the accuracy of the information provided and the inclusion of all of the items listed below.

The book will need the following:

- Title Page with name of your book
- Page discussing isolationism and a specific policy
- Page discussing what events ultimately ended American isolationist policies
- Page discussing how the war impacted the people at home in the United States
- Page discussing how the war impacted women and minorities
- Page discussing the use of nuclear weapons
- Page discussing the impact of the war and the relationship between the United States and the Soviet Union
